

Project Oceanology

After School Marine Studies Program

Ten weeks of hands-on marine science research for grades 7-12

Join us for in-depth oceanographic research on our research vessel, the Enviro-Lab. Each Tuesday afternoon from 3:30 to 6:30, we will embark on a field study excursion and study off-shore marine habitats. Sessions begin Tuesday, September 28th through December 7th.

Under the guidance of professional marine scientists

Our experienced and accredited instructors have extensive knowledge of the ocean and relate well with middle and high school age students.

In our fully equipped facilities

Our research vessels are U.S. Coast Guard inspected. Our building facilities, located on the University of Connecticut's Avery Point campus, contain a water quality lab, marine biology lab, seawater lab, computer lab and multi-media classrooms.

Space is limited.

Fill out the section below and return it to your science teacher by Monday, September 20th. There is no charge to students from school systems that are members of Project O. Funds are available to students who are not part of a member system.
